WHAT IS THE CHRISTIAN LIFE? SOME VITAL FACTORS

One might first say a word as to what the Christian life is not. It is not feeling, emotion, sentiment. These may all be elements which enter into it; but spirituality is something more—higher, deeper, broader than these. Dr. Henry Drummond says, "The spiritual life is the life of the Spirit; the spiritual man is no mere development of the natural. He is a new creature, born from above."

Being born of the Spirit, the Christian life is one of progress and advancement.

We see many analogies in human life and in God's beautiful world of nature. Mother Earth during the next few weeks will be donning a wondrously beautiful dress. After the continued frost and snow of the long Winter we shall, with delight, see again the bursting buds, the waving foliage, and the green leaves of varied tints, trembling and glistening in the bright sunlight.

But, later on, we shall not be satisfied if the fragrance of the full-blown rose is not wafted upon the Summer breeze, and the trees in our orchards are not bowing their branches with the burden of ripening fruit.

The prattle of the wee baby in your nursery is the most joyous music you can hear. But in the coming years you will not be satisfied with babyhood's pretty ways and words; you will want to see the sturdy boy, full of mischief, schemes for fun, and ambitions for the future, and the winsome, merry-voiced maiden with the open, receptive mind, drinking at the well of knowledge, as the Summer flower drinks the refreshing draughts from the fountain of the morning dew.

The law ruling the realm of nature is the law of growth, and the power that sways the spiritual kingdom is one of development.

Three Steps

"There are three steps in spiritual progress. The first is our own insufficiency; the second is His all-sufficiency; and the third is our sufficiency through Him for all things to which He calls us in His holy will and providence."

The spiritual life is a yielded life. Tenneyson, in his "In Memoriam," expresses this thought beautifully.

"Our wills are ours, we know not how;
Our wills are ours to make them Thine."

They are ours—we are sovereign in our power of will. We must make our wills the Lord's, and as we do so the Holy Spirit comes in greater measure, making Himself manifest through us.

The spiritual life is one of faith. The inspired writer tells us that faith is the substance (or foundation) of things hoped for, the evidence (or assurance) of things not seen, and he proceeds to explain the great achievements of the galaxy of heroes and martyrs, whose lives have left behind them an immortal record.

Oh, the great difficulties that have been faced, the conquests that have been made, through faith. The shield of faith has been represented by someone as "Framed all of diamonds, perfect, pure and clean."

Faith has five qualities: revelation—knowledge; perception—seeing; ascent—acknowledgment; trust—reliance on God; and confession—speaking of God.

Faith is the revelation of God. We do not understand all about Him, but we must know Him who He is, what He is—to believe in Him. Faith is above knowledge—it is sometimes above reason. The raising of Lazarus was above the reason of Mary and Martha, but the mind sees the importance of faith, and there is no knowledge of God without it.

Faith is the telescope through which men see God; unbeliever always wakes unrest and fear, but the trusting soul, with a child's simplicity, places its hand in its Father's and goes forward.

Is Holiness a Failure?

Doubt Leads Men to Seek to Sanctify Themselves, and as a Consequence they Fail. It is Through Jesus we Obtain the Life of Holiness

BY THE GENERAL

"NOT by might, nor by power, but by My Spirit, saith the Lord." I am sure that in this matter of Holiness some of our dear comrades are in danger of leaning too much upon their own strength, and upon the powers which belong to them as the disciples of Jesus Christ, and not enough upon the power of God.

Do not let anyone doubt my confidence and joy in what God has already done for those who have found His Salvation, even though they may not at present know His sanctifying power. All His work for His people is a marvel. His Spirit has come into our lives, changing everything. We are living in a different world since the happy day of our forgiveness. Old things have been swept away. We look back upon the old evil life and we see that God's power has broken it and it has gone. We look upon the old chains and see how gloriously they have been smashed. We look upon the old transgressions only to see that God has come and cleansed them all away.

It is the same with other things. Do not many of us remember the old hardness and coldness of our hearts towards God? Well, where is it now? Do we not recall our awful weakness, our readiness to say, "I can't do this," and "I can't do that," simply because we were bound fast to sin? Did we not feel just as Paul felt: "O wretched man that I am! who shall deliver me from the body of this death?"

Well, the power of God came down on us and did it! Now we look back on those dark times as on a horrible dream, a dream that has passed away and left us awake and walking in the light of the day. It is God's doing; His power alone could have set us free. Now He guides us in His way. "As many as are led by the Spirit of God, they are the sons of God." He turns us into the right way—we who used to be so easily turned the wrong way. He urges us forward and calls us on. He takes our hand in His that He may empower us to do what He wishes us to do. It is all by His power.

Do you doubt God's ability to save and keep to the uttermost? Is your experience a failing one? Be assured it is not God's fault! Pray, wrestle, believe—take Heaven by violence—and leave not your chamber till you prevail with Him, and you shall prove that He is able to keep "your whole spirit and soul and body blameless unto the coming of our Lord Jesus Christ."

Well now, you see that I fully realize what God has done for those who have been born again. I not only see it, but glory in it. It is as I said before, marvelous—as wonderful and unexpected and astonishing, that unless we had actually had experience of it, had seen it done before our eyes, I do not think we could have believed it.

Does not all this encourage us to rely upon that same power to bring in the still more wonderful experience that Jesus bought for us—the life of Holiness? Is not the real difficulty which some of our comrades feel, a doubt about God's power to sanctify them and to keep them doing His will? Does not this doubt lead some who want to be right to trust in themselves, and to seek to sanctify themselves and to keep themselves? As a consequence they fail, and then they grow discouraged, lose faith in this great Blessing and give it up altogether.

But my dear comrades, He is almighty to save—He really is. He has begun to work in you with signs and wonders. He has released you from the power of the Devil in this wonderful way, so that you may see for yourself what He can do. Now, if only you will call on Him, He will finish that work in purifying your heart.

And this same power, if you are willing, can become your motive force, your driving power on the highway of Holiness. He will not only lift you up on to that road, out of the bogs and marshes of selfishness and doubt and fear, but He will walk with you there, and you with Him. "Walk in the Spirit," Paul says. That is, walk in the power of the Holy Spirit, and then you will find only the fruits of Holiness in your heart—love, joy, peace, meekness, patience, endurance. They will spring up and grow. God will do it, and the remnants of the old, fleshly, and evil fruits of the past will be cast out. They must go when His power takes full possession: all of them.

And is not this just what we might expect at the hands of Him who has washed us from our sins? And is it not what His Word proclaims, and what unnumbered multitudes now in the Beyond have declared He did for them, and what tens of thousands now on the Way declare He has also done for them? Yes, you know it is.

Do come then, and trust in the power of God. And believe that a man can live a holy life.

THE ARMY IN BEAUTIFUL COBOURG

A HAPPY VIEWING OF A CORPS WHICH HAS BEEN FULFILLING ITS PURPOSE FOR FORTY-TWO YEARS

THE town of Cobourg is beautifully situated on the shores of Lake Ontario. Amongst its chief attractions are the magnificent Summer residences of American citizens. During the hot Summer months, on Sunday afternoons, the Band occupies the band-stand on the lake front, and, with its music, affords not only pleasure, but considerable spiritual profit to these visitors from across the border, as well as to the citizens of the home town.

The Salvation Army commenced operations here some forty-two years ago, under the direction of the present Colonel Tom Scott (of the U.S.A., now retired). The fighting was by no means easy. When the Captain and three or four brave warriors endeavored to hold Open-air services on the main thoroughfare, they were requested by the authorities to "move on." For a time, their Open-air operations were confined to the market place, behind the Town Hall. But time has wrought a few changes. Now, the Saturday evening Open-air service is held directly in front of the Town Hall!

ago, under the direction of the present Colonel Tom Scott (of the U.S.A., now retired). The fighting was by no means easy. When the Captain and three or four brave warriors endeavored to hold Open-air services on the main thoroughfare, they were requested by the authorities to "move on." For a time, their Open-air operations were confined to the market place, behind the Town Hall. But time has wrought a few changes. Now, the Saturday evening Open-air service is held directly in front of the Town Hall!

Since these early days, The Army has occupied many buildings—good, bad, and indifferent—mostly bad! Our comrades are now comfortably housed in a splendid Citadel, which was opened two years ago.

The Corps has a full staff of Census Locals, all of whom are zealous for the Cause, and fulfil their duties satisfactorily. Each of these, it is interesting to note, is an ardent worker amongst the young people.

The Home League is a "live" feature, and, under the direction of Treasurer Mrs. Marsh, is a great asset to the Corps generally and to the individuals in the League particularly.

The Band consists of twenty players. Although, perhaps, numerical growth has not been as rapid as some of its brother-combinations, yet real spiritual and musical advancement can be recorded. It can truly be said that these men have grown in grace "upon their knees!" The prayer period in the practice-room is relished and entered into with the same fervor as the practice itself. By perseverance and hard work, allied with divine aid, Bandsmen have been "made" and added one by one, so that the Band-membership has increased from five to its present useful strength. Seven of these players were taught to play during the aforementioned period. About seventy per cent. of them are English horn. For a period, the Band concentrated upon Band

Book No. 1—a wise policy—but as its development became more pronounced, it ventured a little further; the Second Series Journals being obtained. Now the Band essays with credit some of The Army's latest compositions. Bandmaster Kershaw, under whose able leadership the Band has made such gratifying advance, is assisted by Deputy-Bandmaster Marsh, Band-Sergeant A. Clarke and Band Secretary S. Merry. New uniforms have recently been purchased, which add to the general smartness of the men. Other purchases, of recent date, include a new bass drum, a BBH monstre and a tenor horn, the two latter instruments being "Our Own Make." Three or four others have also been purchased, and a similar number re-pitched. A Young People's Band is in process of formation, the Bandmaster being assisted in the training of these fourteen boys by the Deputy-Bandmaster.

The Young People's Corps is in a healthy condition, and during the past two years has been almost entirely re-organized. During the major portion of this period, the Officers have been nobly assisted by Sister Mrs. F. Edgell, who has just relinquished her position as Young People's Sergeant-Major, but is rendering good service as a Sand Tray Teacher, Envoy Gull, who takes a keen interest in the young people, has been appointed Young People's Sergeant-Major, Sister Mrs. H. Peacock fills the position of Treasurer and Directory Class Leader, being assisted in this by Young People's Sergeant Elsie Cowin. Sister Mrs. Cowin, who has recently undertaken duties as Sand Tray Sergeant, puts much into her work, and, of course, obtains much satisfaction from so doing. Co-operating with the Sergeant are five Sand Tray teachers, who are laying good spiritual foundations in the minds of the little folks. A Sand Tray Preparation Class is held every Tuesday evening, when the Company Guards thoroughly study the lesson for the ensuing Sunday.

Under the supervision of Sister Mrs. Hayward, the Band of Love is making pleasing progress. The members of this aggressive branch are at present busily engaged in preparing for a sale, to be held in the near future.

Life-Saving Scout Leader Marsh might well be proud of his splendid Troop, numbering forty-one boys, most of whom have passed their second class test. The Leader is ably supported by Assistant-Leader Peacock, whose wide knowledge of Scoutcraft has proved a great boon to the Troop. Corps Secretary George Clarke is Chaplain. He is the right man in the right place! Instructors S. Merry, S. Allender, W. Chappell, B. Hornbeck and W. Wong complete the officers' roll of this all-active Troop.

The Guards are not one whit behind their "brothers," but are working with might and main to become proficient in Guardcraft. There is a whisper abroad that the next "General's Guard" will come from this aggressive Troop. Guard Leader Edith Cowin, who has "risen from the ranks," commencing as a Beginner, makes an excellent Leader. Assistant-Leader Medhurst, Chaplain Mrs. Cowin, Instructors Mrs. Wong and Mrs. Peacock form a band of ready helpers. Attached to the Guards is a progressive Sunbeam Patrol.

The Corps Cadet Brigade, although only four months old, has already proved its value to the Corps. Its Guardian, Sister Mrs. Gull, is a sterling Salvationist, and sets an example that each of the Cadets might well follow. Each member of the Brigade is a WAR CRY Herald, the Guardian herself selling fifty copies weekly. Two other comrades are also faithful Boomers of the White-Winged Messenger; Sister Mrs. Wong, who averages nearly fifty copies per week, and Sister Elsie Cowin. A most successful venture, recently inaugurated, is the Company Meeting at Kingston Crossing, an outlying district, under the supervision of Mrs. Captain Gage. The average attendance thus far is thirty-five.

Amongst its Soldiery, Cobourg is proud to count a veteran saint of many battles—Granny Beare—whose life covers nearly one century. Despite her age, this comrade retains her faculties to a remarkable degree—even to the extent of knitting socks without the aid of glasses! Besides this, Granny has an excellent memory, and gives a splendid testimony. She is especially interested in the young people and never tires of urging them to a complete surrender of their lives to God. Our comrade testifies proudly that she obtained the Blessing of a Clean Heart under "Captain" Kendall's ministrations.

Another of Cobourg's worthies is Honorary Sergeant-Major Medhurst, who, although confined to his bed, and deprived of the privilege of battling as of yore, nevertheless can look back with pleasure upon a lengthy period of strenuous activity in the Corps in days when The Army was not held in the high esteem it is today, and when the valiants numbered but a handful.

The worthy leaders of this worthy Corps are Captain and Mrs. Gage, under whose direction the work during a two-year period of office, has forged ahead steadily. Their godly example, even more than their organizing and platform ability, has been responsible for the marked advance and for the gracious spiritual atmosphere which exists in all branches of work in the Corps. They are, in essence, "doers of the Word."

DON'T SACRIFICE EFFICIENCY TO SPEED

By BANDMASTER KERSHAW,

IN THESE days of speed, everything, apparently, must move quickly. New speed records are continually being made on land, sea and in the air. This aggressiveness is not confined to the motorist, swimmer, runner or airman, but applies itself to practically every walk of life, so in these speed-crazy days a little reflection will do us no harm. The business man must work at top speed to comply with the requirements of the customer, or else risk the loss of that customer's trade. We find that prompt and quick service is everywhere demanded, and, in view of much competition, must be given.

Life to-day is being lived at a tremendous rate, and yet merely speed alone will be spasmodic unless there be some other power at work. To the record-breaker there is an impulse at work, a power behind the actual feat. It may be years of hard work, made up of long hours of study, careful planning and training; in short, a high state of efficiency is required in both men and machines to achieve the wonderful things being accomplished to-day. In the business world, nothing would be gained by merely executing orders in regard to quick service, if the goods were faulty; therefore, it is necessary that not only quick, but efficient, service be given for any real and lasting benefit to occur.

An Analogy

Now what applies to the speed-merchant in business life, etc., also applies to Army activities. What is really meant by a high state of efficiency in Corps life? Does it come by possessing a Band or Sergeant Brigade capable of rendering The Army's best and most intricate compositions? Or by having all branches of the Corps' life in operation? Or by the amount of uniform worn? Or by the cheerful manner in which the Soldiers carry out their Corps' duties? Really creditable as a Corps like this is, we might make this state analogous to the quick-service of the business man, for, just as the latter would fail without efficient workmanship behind it, so must the Corps fail in its true purpose of existence, without God's Holy Spirit working in and through its Soldiers.

Yes, we might even continue to play our music, sing our songs, and carry out our Corps duties, but if we do not know as a definite experience the indwelling of the Holy Spirit in our hearts; if the "body of sin" is not yet crucified with Him; if we are content to remain on a lower level with no real hunger and thirst after righteousness, and the souls of the people are such a worry to us after all, then, to put it mildly, our Corps' efficiency isn't what it should and could be!

Spiritual Efficiency

Prayer is the medium by which this spiritual efficiency may be obtained. Those of our Corps whose Soldiers are prepared and anxious to pray—not only in the Halls, or when called upon, but who make time to get alone with the Father as did our Saviour, and there pray in secret—these are our most efficient Corps in spiritual warfare. The Soldiers in such Corps go about in the home, Corps or the work shops, creating such an influence that sinners are convicted by their very presence; for is not this influence God-wrought?

Strong men are praying men. It is said that Abraham Lincoln spent the hour from 5 to 6 every morning studying the Word and praying that

WILLIAM BOOTH

The Founder of The Salvation Army

"WAS MOVED WITH COMPASSION AND—DID THINGS!"

By MARGARET MONCRIEFF

FIVE words described one of the most appealing characteristics of our Lord Jesus Christ: "He was moved with compassion." An enclosed brass tablet in the East end of London marks the memorial to one of whom this striking and attractive statement could be made. When William Booth stood in ling, active, pushing through obstacles and difficulties and solving the problems; saying with Napoleon, when he was remonstrated with regarding the dangers and hardships of a certain military undertaking, "Alps! There shall be no Alps!" So the Founder General, moved with compassion, with a spirit propelled all his glowing and abounding young manhood on Mile End Waste, his spirit was stirred by the conditions prevailing. He saw pitiful masses of men and women, struggling in the slough of desperation, hungry, drunken with the evil liquid which flowed so freely. And he saw hungry children clinging to the skirts of the women from whose features all signs of loving, tender motherhood had departed. Unwanted little morsels of humanity! All this, and much more, forced itself into his soul. Its appalling need and claims impressed themselves indelibly upon his spirit. He was moved with compassion.

The Founder of The Salvation Army, whom we shall especially remember on April 10th

What is this compassion? Is it pity?

Yes, pity, heart-searching pity and sorrow for suffering.

Is it concern? Yes, concern, anxiety to relieve the condition of the needy ones.

Is it love? Oh, yes, that is the chief element and that is the divine spark, kindled and kept burning upon eternal altars. All this love, a consuming passion, concern, desperate anxiety to act, to do something. Pity—tender, eager, propelrepresentative of International Headquarters we went down into White-chapel. It was evening. Evening in England. The sun's rays, disappearing in shades of deepest and softest light. English box-edged gardens as we passed along, sending out scents of a myriad perfumes. But Mile End. What a contrast!

What is the meaning of this procession of women passing on before us? "Wait and you will see," said the representative, and we stood back in the shadows as this army from the submerged pressed its weary steps through the entrance of The Salvation Army Shelter. By and by we, too, entered. What a sight! Such a sea of faces. Marred motherhood in many instances. Every age, from youth to those bent and worn with life's battle, which had been too much for them. Three hundred little bundles were clutched in bony hands or held upon laps. All their earthly possessions. That one chair their only home. Through a mist of tears one talked to them.

At the close of a tragic evening one concluded one's address with "No, my sisters, I am going across the sea." (Ave, me . . . with my little girl. Bless the child.) "Come again, madam, come again."

"What shall we sing?" I enquired.

Almost immediately, almost unanimously was the request voiced: "There is a better world, they say."

Oh so bright! Oh so bright!

Where sin and woe are done away,

Oh so bright! Oh so bright!

Where music fills the balmy air,

And angels with bright wings are there,

And harps of gold and mansions fair,

Oh so bright! Oh so bright!

It was a dramatic climax. "Better world!" This world had given them very little in life, but because of the joyful news of compassion which had moved the Greatheart, William Booth, it had been made a little better, and over the horizon there was another world to which they might turn with a new hope in their lives.

The Secret

"And seeing the multitude He was moved with compassion." In the creed and religion of the ancients, love was unknown. Adoration, degradation, asceticism, even beauty, but affection—never! Even the Hebrew Deity, Jehovah, was understood to be a god of law and justice. It was the Saviour of men who first manifested the attribute of love. It was a new order. The compassion of Jesus. We cannot measure its height, its depth and breadth because we cannot comprehend infinity. The compassion is so stupendous, it would encompass in its arms the whole sin-blighted, suffering world, and lift it to purity, Heaven and God. Marvelous compassion! And yet so tender is it that it stoops to wipe away the tear from the face of a little child.

A poor woman in the slums of London was taken away by kind, philanthropic people to the sea-side. As she stood on the shore, with the waves lapping her feet, she exclaimed, "Oh, thank God for something there is enough of."

Poor soul. She had never enjoyed enough of anything. Not enough fresh air. Not enough sunshine. Not enough space. Not enough food or friendship, and so her happiness was complete when she witnessed the wide expanse of ocean stretching to far distant shores, and she saw for the first time in her life something there was enough of.

He was moved with compassion as He witnessed the seething multitude struggling about His feet—a compassion that met their every need. It supplied their hunger of body with food, their suffering and pain with healing, their spiritual needs with mercy.

"I am the bread of life." That is the secret! "If a man seeth his brother hath need and shutteth up his heart of compassion against him, how dwelleth the love of God in him?"

This is the true standard of measurement.

with unyielding, overwhelming emotion and purpose, conquered the Alps of persecution, ridicule. Alps! No Alps of human building could impede the progress of his work for the Master. His standard of hope penetrated the darkest caverns of human hopelessness and his message of mercy reached every form of human necessity.

Why? Because, like his Lord and Master, William Booth was moved with compassion, and to-day, in every land, that same Gospel is carried—to city and hamlet. This glorious truth is flung out upon the city streets by thousands of blessed, consecrated Bandsmen whose music reaches hearts sad and burdened with sin and suffering. A noble sisterhood is drying tears and comforting broken hearts. How we should thank the Lord for William Booth, whose nature was moved with compassion so many years ago.

Never did I understand the real significance of this, the real maelstrom of evil upon which the Rev. William Booth gazed and which probed his soul to its depths, until one evening in London, England, some years ago. Accompanied by a

Salvation Army "Lighthouse" Keeps Alaskan Natives "Off the Rocks"

Concerning The Army's work among the natives of Alaska, the Rev. Mr. Corser, in his book, "Totem Lore," says: "The Salvation Army has a work which must specially be commended. It possibly has come nearer to solving the problem of Indian Christian work than that of any other Christian body. It has been specially successful in utilizing native workers. These natives have worked entirely without salary, and they have everywhere been successful in developing a high standard of manhood."

One of our native Sergeants-Major, in the manner of Indian orators, drew the following comparison at the recent Alaskan Congress: "When the white men first came to Alaska they put marks on the rocks to guide the captains of the boats. Some captains, they very careful, get back safely. Others very careless, they go smash on the rocks. Then the Government put light-houses and bell-buoys along channels to make them safer. The Salvation Army come up here to be a light-house to the natives. It keep us off the rocks, for we can now see the Light of Salvation."

What better tribute could be paid to the mission of The Army than that? May the lighthouse burn brighter than ever!

SALVATION ARMY POLICEWOMAN

Takes One Hundred Girls in One Year From off the Streets of Melbourne

Melbourne, Australia, possesses a Salvationist policewoman. In one year Policewoman Nellie Davidson took from the streets one hundred girls under the age of seventeen, the large majority of whom had never before been in court, but would undoubtedly soon have come there but for the policewoman's kindly aid. Scores of children has she rescued from ill-treatment or neglect.

Whether with collecting-box on the main thoroughfare; looking after the Melbourne City Bandsmen and young folk who stay at the Citadel for meals on Sundays rather than travel or miss their duties; or taking her part in active warfare, Sister Davidson is a valiant warrior, of whom the Corps is justly proud.

JUSTICE OF THE PEACE

The Governor of Jamaica has appointed Brigadier Smith (the General Secretary for the West Indies West Territory) to be a J.P. for the Parish of Kingston. This is the first time an Army Officer in the West Indies has been appointed to this position.

Helping Berlin's Thirty-Five Thousand Russian Refugees

THERE are upwards of three million refugees in Germany, and in the city of Berlin are to be found to-day some 35,000 people of Russian nationality. Many of these were in good and even affluent circumstances before the break up of the old regime in their native land, but now they are all distressingly poor; indeed, so urgent is their need, and no pressing have been the appeals for help, that The Army has been obliged to turn a deaf ear.

But no matter what their former station, they all alike now stand in urgent need of help, and make an appeal to which The Army cannot turn a deaf ear.

In spite of the overshadowing pinions of poverty and want, the meetings are proving to be both happy and useful, for in addition to whatever temporal help may be given, the message of Christ is being proclaimed, and many a lonely heart in exile has been comforted by a fuller consciousness of His presence and help. Though far from their native land, many are already filled with gratitude and thanksgiving on account of the spiritual deliverance which has come to them.

The living conditions of most of these refugees are distressing. To be without house, flat, or even a separate room is to find oneself in great difficulty, especially when one is also penniless, workless, and without friends. Many also have particularly sad memories of what has happened to their relatives; some have, in addition to the loss of all their worldly goods, suffered pathetic and tragic bereavements. Then again it will be understood that they are regarded, in a sense, as of no nationality, and wherever they might desire to seek asylum, they are not wanted.

One of the ways in which they are to be helped is by means of cheap food, for the provision of which the Field Kitchen Work, which proved so effective over a wider field during the post-war period, will be utilized.

Some idea of the sorrowful condition of things may be gathered from the statement that on the Saturday previous to our interview with the Captain in Berlin, a high official, who had been on the General Staff of the Czar, came begging for something to eat. He had not had any regular food for a month, but had subsisted on an occasional mouthful or two of black bread, and a drink of black tea. A Russian doctor, deeply moved by what he had seen, came asking for a room in which he could help to do something for his fellow-Russians.

Needless to add, the General himself is interested in this undertaking, which is but at its beginning, and he says: "Give them something to eat first, and then go on with the work of saving their souls!"—W. N.

Among the first party of Bhanthus who migrated to the Andaman Islands were some from our Fazipur Settlement. On being asked what their religion was, they replied "Makti Fauji" (Salvation Army). Some deaths occurred among the Islanders, and pressure was brought to bear upon these people to take part in the Hindu rites in this connection. Thus they steadfastly refused to do in spite of the great temptation to propitiate their old-time gods,

A MIGHTY FEAST

Eighteen Hundred Settlers Celebrate General's Day at Stuartpuram, India

Four years ago the General, when in India, visited the Criminal Settlement at Stuartpuram, in the Madras and Telugu Territory, and each year since, on the anniversary of that day, a special treat is prepared for the settlers. This year, Ensign Deva Varem (Persson), the Manager, undertook to provide the whole Settlement with a cooked meal—a very big undertaking indeed.

It was a wonderful sight when more than eighteen hundred men, women, and children sat down at one time to eagerly devour this gratuitous repast.

The Administration Report of the Labor Department of the Presidency of Madras for 1925-6 thus comments upon The Army's work among the Criminal Tribes: "The Salvation Army has done great work in all the Settlements in its charge. Ensign Persson of the Sitanagaram Settlement had special difficulties to face in the cyclone, which upset the normal work for many days, and forced many Settlers to live in the open until the huts, blown away, were rebuilt. He is to be congratulated not only for the success with which he faced his task, but also for his personal exertions in inducing forty O. V.s. (Out of Views) to return to the Settlement under a general amnesty granted by the District Magistrate. The work of other Managers also deserves commendation."

The Army was recently awarded gold, silver, and bronze medals for its fine exhibit at the Madras Park Fair, India.

PENNINGS WELL WORTH PERUSING

HOW TO DEVELOP A PLEASING PERSONALITY

"There is no Need to Consult a Beauty Specialist"

BRIEFLY, the only way is to observe the Golden Rule. Always be polite to everybody, no matter what their station in life. Politeness is true kindness graciously expressed. It is more a matter of the heart than of form. Yet the form is worthy of attention, because it has to do with agreeableness of expression.

Aim to give pleasure and not pain. Avoid giving offense, and be not easily offended. Be quick to forgive, always ready to confess your faults and to make amends.

Show respect to everybody, and do not make the familiarity of your intimate friends an excuse for the lack of the good manners and courtesies that you extend to people with whom you are not so well acquainted.

Seek to impart comfort and happiness to all who come within the sphere of your influence. Always be ready to speak a word in season to the sad or distressed.

Be careful not to wound the feelings of even the most sensitive, either by words or acts. Have no unkind criticism for anyone. Be too busy attending to your own affairs, ministering to, or helping, others, to have any part in vulgar or cheap talk, or in circulating damaging reports about your neighbors.

Be not domineering or overbearing, nor loud or boisterous. Do not seek to attract attention to yourself by boasting or posing, or in any other manner.

Indulge in personal cleanliness, and wear neat, well-fitting garments and clean linen. Let there be such harmony and moderation as to make dress unnoticeable, except for its neatness.

Do not be lax in reproving where reproof is needed, but always in a kind, though firm manner.

Always be on the look-out for small things that you can do. Never count anything too small to be worth doing to the best of your ability.

Live a selfless life. Love and serve God in such a way that people will see what you are. Let your actions speak louder than your words. "Let your light so shine . . ."

You show exactly what you are in your face. You can cultivate such a personality that your presence will be felt wherever you are. People's eyes will be attracted to you as though by a magnet, and they will exclaim, "What a striking personality!"

There is no need to consult a beauty specialist. Cultivate inner beauty, beauty of the soul, and the beauty of character, which is the only real and permanent beauty, will shine in your face.—T.L.P.

JUST A LOOK AT CALVARY

By SISTER MRS. GILLARD, Dovercourt

Tune: "Love's old sweet song"

Jesus has come to give the sinner peace.
From all sin's fetters He can give release.
Burdens can lift, and sorrows drive away.
Power He can give o'er evil day by day.
When we our sin repent, confess, forsake,
He from our hearts its guilt and power will take.

CHORUS

Just a look at Calvary,
Just an earnest prayer
From a contrite sinner
To the Saviour there.
Swiftly comes an answer,
Pardon, peace and love,
And His precious promise

Jesus will come again to claim His own,
Take them to live forever near His throne.
In that bright land from care and sorrow free,
Singing His praises through eternity.
This blessed hope is offered now to all,
Who will for pardon on the Saviour call.

THOUGHTS ON BEAUTY

"God is the Source and Soul of Every Fine and Lovely Thing"

By SISTER MRS. MERLE HAMILTON

GOD blows a breath through man, and lo!—a symphony—a song—the artist's soul upon canvas. He makes a man with spirit tuned to Heaven—not earth; and when at will He breathes upon the strings of his aeolian soul, lo! then, a melody—which is the way they talk in Heaven!—or else a truth dressed up in singing words; or perhaps a picture which takes Heaven to any nook or corner where it's hung.

But oft because these souls are made with eyes to pierce the blue and gaze right up into the face of God, ears delicately tuned to catch the sound of nature's sweet, elusive speech, hearts super-sensitive to all emotion's undulations, they are of men most miserable when pressed and jostled harshly by the crowd. Say not 'tis merely "cleverness" with them; or "oddness," maybe. 'Tis God!

All art belongs to Him who gave it. If He, my friend, has put a bit of Heaven within your throat or at your finger-tips, it is not just an accident that you are made that way. It is your "talent which is death to hide," your gift wherewith to "serve your Maker, and present your true account lest He, returning, chide."

God is the source and soul of every fine and lovely thing. The scent of lilies in the Spring-time dusk, I like to think, is just His breath. The gorgeous, flaming sunset is the glory of His robe. His voice goes keening down the wind that moves the grasses' tops. It is His foot-print in the sod, when scarlet poppies tinkle. His eyes look through the eyes of all who love their brother-man. His smile is in the happy hour that drops, unthought, across your way. It is His ear in human ear that lends itself to sorrow's tale. Say not 'tis "nature" merely, just "life." 'Tis God!

In Jesus all things beautiful are found. He is the heart and mind's delight; He is the soul's (Continued on page 12)

"GET WARMED UP"

By ADJUTANT DAVID SNOWDEN

PASSING a garage the other day I overheard this remark, "Get it warmed up. I can do nothing with it until you get it warmed up." The remark was made by the repair mechanic to a customer and had reference to his car. The only time a car will run all right is when it is hot. When it is cold it will kick and splutter and backfire. When men and women are cold in the great cause for God, they are just like that—they kick and splutter and backfire.

The church of God in all ages has ever found that a revival of religion has preceded by a baptism of Fire descending upon believers themselves. There cannot be any genuine work until we "get warmed up" with the Fire of the Holy Ghost. Without the baptism of Fire no Salvationist can be qualified for his work.

One of Christ's last injunctions to His disciples was, "Tarry ye in Jerusalem until ye be endued with power from on high." Plainly, the lesson taught us is this: that the indwelling Holy Ghost is the only power of the Christian. Neither money, nor intelligence, nor wisdom, nor social standing, nor any earthly advantage whatever, are of the slightest account in our work for Christ unless they are associated with and used by the power of the indwelling Holy Ghost.

What a difference this baptism of Fire makes. Mark the examples as illustrated in the lives of the best Christian workers. What was Peter before his baptism? His life was a sad failure. He fell into grievous temptation and bitter reproach, disloyal to his master and a denier of his Saviour and Friend; but when the Pentecostal Fire came upon him, he got warmed up and became strong in the Lord, and was instrumental in winning thousands of souls to Jesus.

What was D. L. Moody, the great evangelist, before his baptism? Powerless in winning a single soul. Even one of his hearers said to him, "How is it, Mr. Moody, you have no power?" But when he got warmed up with the Fire of the Holy Ghost, hundreds and thousands were awakened and saved.

What was Dr. Chalmers before his baptism? A dry preacher of morality without any spiritual results. But when he was clothed with the power of the Holy Ghost, he won vast multitudes for Jesus.

A man that is endued with this power may be said to be armed with omnipotent might. By such might, our beloved Founder, John Knox, Branwell, Luther, Fletcher and many others won their victories. Baptized with this special power of the Holy Ghost, Paul went forth, and, as it were, fought with wild beasts at Ephesus. It was this special anointing which caused Paul to count all things but loss for the excellency of the knowledge of Christ Jesus; ay, and count not his life dear to himself that he might finish his course with joy, and the ministry which he had received of the Lord.

There are many subsidiary helps which a soldier of Christ may not neglect, but the prime and indispensable qualification is the endowment of the Holy Ghost.

"The pen is mightier than the sword." Do you wish to strike a blow at the kingdoms of darkness? Then use your pen! By doing so you will find an effective means of fighting for your Lord. Many converts who confess to lack of ability in public utterance, can express their thoughts through the medium of the written word. You may be one such!

GENERAL ORDER SELF-DENIAL, 1927

The Annual Week of Self-Denial will be observed in the Canada East Territory from May 7 to 13. After March 14 no Demonstration of a financial character (except on behalf of the Self-Denial Fund) may take place in any Corps until the Campaign is closed, without the consent of Territorial Headquarters. Officers of all ranks are responsible for seeing that this General Order is observed.

Lieut.-Commissioner.

TERRITORIAL SLOGAN:
SALVATION!

THE FOUNDER and April 10

SIGNIFICANTLY enough April 10 always falls within the charmed "Resurrection" period when both Nature and Grace make a special appeal to the hearts of men. The birth of a little child away there in the city of Nottingham, England, in the year 1829, probably differed but slightly from that of a thousand other similar events. Yet from it was to spring, by God's inscrutable wisdom and goodness, immeasurable blessing for the whole world, a revival of practical religion which is still a rising tide laden with hope and Salvation for all mankind! To pause here, however, and conclude the story, wonderful as it is, would be but to take in part of the truth and almost to wholly miss the great lesson which April 10 brings afresh to every reader. God's part was, like all His works, perfect in its planning and benevolent design; but all had been thwarted, perhaps frustrated—at any rate hindered—had not the youthful William Booth yielded soul, will and body to the Divine Call of his Lord. God has His gracious purpose for us all. Are we carrying it out? If not, let the Founder's birthday become memorable for us as marking the date when we came into the Will of God.

THE COMMISSIONER at North Bay and Hamilton 1

BRIGHT GATHERINGS EFFECTIVELY FLAVORED WITH "SELF-DENIAL"

"SURELY God has met with us." "We are better in our own souls," and "We are going back to our Corps better fitted to push the battle to the gates." Such were the remarks passed by Officers of the North Bay Division, as they boarded the train on Wednesday morning and went back to their Corps.

With but one exception, every Officer in the Division was assembled in North Bay to meet the Commissioner and to extend to him a real Salvation welcome.

At 10.15 a.m. on Tuesday, March 22, Major Cameron, the Divisional Commander, met the Officers for Council, and a blessed time was experienced.

Met to See and Hear

But what of the afternoon Council? Shortly after 2 o'clock the Officers gathered to meet and to greet the Commissioner, and to quote our correspondent, when the Commissioner appeared, "up rose an enthusiastic yell." Anticipation was to be realized. How much these North country comrades had heard concerning him! All kinds of questions had presented themselves to their minds. Was he really taking Canada by storm? Was he not only a real Commissioner but a true, loyal Salvationist? Had he the mellow voice of which they had heard so much? Well, they had waited, and were now to see and hear.

After the usual preliminaries, a few words of welcome were extended to the Commissioner by Ensign Pollock, of North Bay; Ensign Groat, of Sudbury, and Captain Hempstead, of Sault Ste. Marie. Major Cameron also warmly greeted the Commissioner.

As the Commissioner talked, all present forgot that he was a Territorial Leader of The Salvation Army in Canada East, and remembered only that he was a messenger from God. Souls were blessed, fresh consecrations were made and vows renewed, and every one said he not only came up to their expectations, but far surpassed them.

An Uplifting Meeting

At 8 o'clock a Soldiers' meeting was held in the Citadel, which was filled to overflowing. Not only Officers, but many of the Soldiers and Local Officers availed themselves of the opportunity of hearing the Commissioner. Sergeant-Major Cryderman, of Huntsville, in a few words, told of how proud he was to be a Salvationist and to have the privilege of meeting the Commissioner and to stand on the platform with him. Bandmaster Gross, of Orillia, also expressed his gratitude to God for His leadings, and spoke of his pleasure in being present to greet our Leader.

"But isn't the Commissioner going to sing?" was the questioning murmur that went around the building. Surely he did, and favorite words to a good Scotch tune. Silence filled the room, and many saw a new beauty in Christ as he sang.

The Commissioner's message was thoroughly uplifting, and before the meeting closed several comrades re-consecrated their lives to God and The Salvation Army.

The Officers returned to their Corps richer in their experience and better equipped for the fight.

The Commissioner has won his way into all hearts in the Northland, and the warm hearts in the cold country will ever be glad to give him a royal welcome.

FOLLOWING close on the inspirations of the Councils of Sunday, came a meeting for the united Officers and Soldiers of the City. Once again the No. 1 Citadel proved inadequate to hold the great crowd that assembled.

The meeting was a charge with spiritual vigor throughout, starting with a rousing song which seemed to tune-up the hearts in preparation for the blessed time that was to follow. Mrs. Colonel Hargrave, filled with holy fervor, prayed for a visitation from God. Then the Field Secretary lined out a glory song, and both the sentiment of the words and the rousing melody seemed to appeal to the crowd, for they sang it with a heartiness that (so declares Correspondent Evenden) threatened the already-cracked ceiling.

Selections by the Band and Songsters gave bright musical touches to the meeting, and the duet—"Only Jesus will I know"—sung by our Leaders, was greatly appreciated.

Both the Commissioner and Mrs. Maxwell gave helpful messages that stirred our hearts. "The more time and service we give Him when we are in health," declared Mrs. Maxwell, "the more likely are we to experience His comforting Presence when we cross over Jordan."

The Commissioner took a rarebit of Paul's counsel to Timothy, and made it the basis of an earnest appeal for all present to seek reinforcement of spiritual grace from the Lord. The Spirit of God clothed that message, and hearts took a more pronounced bent than ever towards living the courageous, Christian life.

The Commissioner met the Officers of Hamilton Division in Council on Monday afternoon and a gracious "str-up" period was enjoyed. In a heart-to-heart talk, our Leader came close to each Officer. All present were greatly inspired.

THE CHIEF SECRETARY

CAMPAIGNS AT ST. THOMAS AND LONDON 1

VISION-WIDENING AND HEART-WARMING MEETINGS FOR OFFICERS AND SOLDIERS

ST. THOMAS

THE CHIEF SECRETARY visited St. Thomas on Sunday, March 20, and led a vigorous campaign, working strenuously in both open-air and indoor meetings. The Divisional Commander and Mrs. Burton, and Commandant Hurd, supported the Colonel at all meetings.

The three services were of a helpful character. The Colonel's Holiness address was honored by the blessing of God, and three seekers responded to his stirring appeal.

A lively hour was spent in the afternoon, the spirit of praise and rejoicing predominating. In this meeting Commandant Hurd sang one of his old-time solos, which was heartily enjoyed. Contributions by the Band and Songsters also lent color to the meeting.

A large crowd gathered at night, despite the inclement weather. The Colonel's Bible message found sure billet in many hearts, and in the earnestly-fought prayer battle four surrenders were recorded.

Under Leader Mrs. Medlyn the Songster Brigade maintained its splendid reputation for excellent singing, and so delighted was the Colonel with their renditions that he invited them to be present at the United Soldiers' meeting in London on the following night.

The comrades as a whole were greatly enriched by the Chief Secretary's ministry during the day, and he will ever find a hearty welcome awaiting him any time he can pay another visit to St. Thomas—Secretary J. Murray.

LONDON 1

Perhaps there are few experiences more enlarging to the human heart than when one realizes afresh that man is his "brother's keeper," when one's heart swells with justifiable pride at the thought that as a co-worker with Jesus Christ, the human, divinely inspired, may bring some "jewels for His crown." That was the terminal point of the Chief Secretary's address which he delivered to a splendid crowd of Officers, Local Officers and Soldiers who gathered at the London 1 Citadel on Monday evening, March 21. If any were inclined to regard their stewardship in a small, parochial sense, they must have had their vision extended by the Colonel's impressive call to fellowship with Him whose great anxiety was for the "other sheep."

The Colonel's vigorous pronouncement concerning the needs of the heathen races, and his enthusiasm with respect to The Army's ability, by the grace of God and assistance of friends, to meet those needs, was most telling in effect. From point to point, geographically and logically, he carried his hearers. The truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth, he spread out before them. "The life of holy and earnest service for God is what this sin-prostrated world needs; and The Salvation Army is, from East to West, laying itself upon the Altar that His will might be done in this and well-oiled every land."

Night from the beginning of the meeting, when the Divisional Commander presented the Chief Secretary to the congregation, to its close, the whole seemed to be a gracious answer to the prayer of Mrs. Brigadier Burton.

The St. Thomas Songster Brigade, under Leader Mrs. Medlyn, was present and rendered two march items—"The Great Review" and "The Coronation"—in a very pleasing and enthusiastic manner.

The Chief Secretary, during the day, met the Officers of the Division, both Field and Social, in Council. A comradely gathering it was, when mind spoke to mind, and heart joined with heart in strong purpose to push the claims of the Kingdom. Staff-Captain and Mrs. Sparks also supported the Chief Secretary during the day.

On Good Friday Morning

IN MASSEY HALL, TORONTO

Two large events loom on the horizon for Good Friday. The first will be a parade of Salvationists, commencing from Queen's Park, and proceeding via the railway point, and proceeding via the College, Yonge and Bay Streets to Massey Hall.

"One Hour at the Cross," a designation applied to the indoor service. This will be led by the Commissioner, who will be supported by Mrs. Maxwell, the Chief Secretary, and the Staff Quartet.

The Calvary Story will be read, and a "living" Cross, composed of one hundred costumed figures, will form a striking background. Following the story there will be Scriptural readings and hymns. Bands, massed St. Brigades, and the Staff Quartet will also participate.

MRS. LT.-COMMISSIONER MAXWELL IN OTTAWA

As we go to press, Mrs. Lieut.-Commissioner Maxwell is in Ottawa attending gatherings of the National Council of Women, of which a member. On Thursday afternoon, March 21, she is to meet the League Locals of the Capital, to give a meeting for women. The sisters are in great time!

TERRITORIAL VERSITIE

THE COMMISSIONER is scheduled to conduct Graduation Exercises at the "Booth Mothers' Home" in Montreal, on Tuesday, April 11.

Our readers will learn, with regret, the serious illness of Brigadier General Booth, who has been in poor health for some time. Remember the Brigadier's Thirde of Grace.

Captain Gladys Howlett has been promoted to Montreal Working Home, and Captain Gladys Jolly to Sydney Hospital, C.E.

Penelope, Perth and Smith's Corps have inaugurated Life Guards Troops. The Territorial Corps, Adjutant Brierley, has returned from a useful tour of the Ottawa and Districts, during which officers were visited. At Ottawa, a gala parade was staged, and the event was a big event in the No. 1 Corps.

Envy and Mrs. Wiltshire, of Wilmington's Home, have welcomed their little son into their home. Congratulations!

Nonconformists have been with new numbers. A Trade Union order, of course!

Major Thompson is in Quebec, being the Self-Denial Drive in the city.

Bandmaster Merritt, of Winnipeg, was a recent caller at Territorial Headquarters. The Bandmaster, who has returned from a useful trip, was the conductor of a young women's domestic choir who sang the S.S. "Carmelita."

Windsor Hospital is undergoing repairs and decorating. Rhonda Hall is also being renovated.

Major and Mrs. Kendall are planned to conduct an Awakening Campaign at Ottawa 1. They expect to open on April 16 and will stay 11 days.

CORPS BREVITIES

Major and Mrs. Kendall, at Ottawa, are engaged in a campaign at about 1000 to date, has resulted in splendid results and two seekers.

Three sisters were among recent callers at Toronto Temple. The Sunday School Convention, they attended at the meetings with their mother, who was later in the midst of the penitents.

An unusual day of power was experienced at Hanover on Sunday, when four seekers knelt at the altar.

On Good Friday Morning

IN MASSEY HALL, TORONTO

Two large events loom on the horizon for Good Friday. The first of these will be a parade of Salvationists commencing from Queen's Park, the rallying point, and proceeding by way of College, Yonge and Shuter Streets to Massey Hall.

"One Hour at the Cross," is the designation applied to the indoor service. This will be led by the Commissioner, who will be supported by Mrs. Maxwell, the Chief Secretary and Staff.

The Calvary Story will be pictured, and a "Living" Cross, comprising one hundred costumed figures, will form a striking background. Supplementing the story there will be musical readings and items by Missed Bands, massed Songster Brigades, and the Staff Quartette.

MRS. LT.-COMMISSIONER MAXWELL IN OTTAWA

As we go to press, Mrs. Lieutenant-Commissioner Maxwell is in Ottawa, attending gatherings of the National Council of Women, of which she is a member. On Thursday afternoon, March 31, she is to meet the Home League Locals of the Capital, and at night a meeting for women is programmed. The sisters are in for a great time!

THE COMMISSIONER is scheduled to conduct Graduation Exercises at the Catherine Booth Mothers' Hospital, Montreal, on Tuesday, April 5.

Our readers will learn, with regret, of the serious illness of Brigadier Crichton, who has been in poor health for some years. Remember the Brigadier at the Throne of Grace.

Captain Gladys Howlett has been appointed to Montreal Workingmen's Home, and Captain Gladys Johnson to Sydney Hospital, C.B.

Pembroke, Perth and Smith's Falls Corps have inaugurated Life-Saving Guards Troops. The Territorial Organizing Adjuvant Elder, has "circled" from a useful tour of the Ottawa and Montreal Divisions, during which fifteen Corps were visited. At Ottawa, a United Guard parade was staged, succeeding which was a big event in the No. 1 Citadel.

Evoxy and Mrs. Williams, of Augusta Workingmen's Home, have welcomed a little son into their home. Congratulations!

Nonconformist Bandmen have been fitted into new uniforms. A Trade Department order, of course!

Major Thompson is in Quebec organizing the Self-Defence Drive in that city.

Bandmaster Morritt, of Winnipeg 1, was a recent caller at Territorial Headquarters. The Bandmaster, who has just returned from a useful trip to England, was the conductor of a party of young women—some of whom arrived on board the S.S. "Carmania."

Windsor Hospital is undergoing interior painting and decorating. Rhodes Ave. Hall is also being renovated.

Major and Mrs. Kendall are preparing to conduct an Awakening Campaign at Ottawa 1. They commenced operations on April 10 and continue until May 1.

CORPS BREVITIES

Major and Mrs. Kendall, at the time of going to press, are engaged in a religious campaign at Mount Dennis, which, to date, has resulted in splendid crowds and twelve seekers.

Three sisters were among recent seekers at Toronto Temple. The Sunday following their conversion, they appeared at the meetings with their mother and another sister, who were later numbered among the repentant.

An unusual day of power was experienced at Hanover on Sunday, March 28, when four seekers knelt at the mercy-seat.

THE COMMISSIONER CONDUCTS A DAY, HARD TO CLOSE

Bandsmen of the Hamilton Division Spend a Memorable Day in a New Practice Room

"THE foundation of all good playing is laid in the practice room." This was the self-evident truism spoken by our Commissioner in the course of a day with the musical forces of the Hamilton Division. That was one aspect of the Bandsman's responsibility—the musical aspect. But there is another aspect, and one which was given due prominence—indeed it was given pre-eminence—in this day of revelations. It was the spiritual aspect. We were forcibly reminded in a score of ways that the foundation of "playing the game" is also laid in the practice room. The "secret place of the Most High" is the practice room to which our Leader made reference. So we Bandsmen spent a day in the practice room with "Bandmaster" Maxwell. And it was a most effective practice!

There were many pleasing "chords" struck during this all-day practice. But the "chord" which dominated was the Christ "chord." We might call it the "dominant chord." We invited His Presence in the initial song: "Come Thou Fount of every Blessing." And we extolled His Name in the vanishing moments of the final session, when we sang, the Commissioner's new chorus:

"Wonderful, wonderful Jesus (repeat).
Oh, what a wonderful Saviour,
Bless His Holy Name!"

Each of those triple sessions was hued with the Divine radiance.

Of necessity, therefore, some dominant "notes" were struck. "Self-examination" was the theme of the initial session. The skilful probing of the Commissioner, through the agency of the Spirit, made us keenly conscious of our inward aridity. The causes of this condition were outlined. The Commissioner appealed to the Bandsman, not as a theorist, but as a practicalist. "I speak from experience," he frequently exclaimed. The peculiar difficulties associated with Bandsmanship are known to, and understood by, him, because he has himself journeyed the same road.

Then there was the dominant of "interest." Every moment sparkled. The Commissioner, as is generally known, is well-versed in what we might call "platform art." Somber periods are conspicuous by their absence in the Commissioner's meetings. Sunday was no exception to the rule. In fact, judging from two respective days spent in this way with Bandsmen, we would not be amiss if we stated that our Leader reaches his forte in a Bandsman's Council. From the onset of the morning session he "corralled" his men. He swayed them not so much by his eloquence as by his transparent Salvationism. At times he was mirthful, at times stern. He did not seek to impose his views arbitrarily. He has a better method. He carries the judgment of his listeners. Does it occasion surprise then that each session was a lofty period? or that we mounted higher as the day passed?

"Strong meat"—as one expressed it—was on the menu for the afternoon session. This period was devoted chiefly to the reading of three papers: the first by Adjutant Coles, in which the topic, "Salvation Army Music and its possibilities," was admirably treated; the second, "The Development of Vocal and Instrumental Quartette Work within the Band," a useful treatise on this subject, by Staff-Captain Beer, and the third by the Editor, captioned

"Some Open Secrets of Successful Banding," which contained a wealth of frank observations and helpful suggestions. These documents were extremely practical, and were in the nature of a veritable treasure-trove to the thoughtful Bandsman who desires to excel.

Bandmaster Fernyough, a visitor from Glace Bay, received a warm ovation when he was called upon to speak. The Commissioner thoughtfully requested the Bandmaster to convey the warmest greetings of these two hundred-odd Bandsmen of Hamilton Division to their colleagues of "the Bay"—an act heartily endorsed by all. Education, mental and spiritual—was surely the dominant of the afternoon session.

The camaraderie existent among Bandsmen was noticeably marked. Veterans of The Army's eventful early days, both in this and in the Old Country, mingled fraternally with the "raw recruits." Bandsman Jackson, of Hamilton 11, was among the former. He had in his possession a Bandsman's commission, dated 1883, and bearing the signature of Bramwell Booth, who was then Chief of the Staff. Bandsman Jackson represents three generations of Salvationists, and informed us that he had no fewer than four sons and three grandsons besides himself participating in the previous night's Musical Festival. Bandsman "Jack" Pollard was singled out by the Commissioner as an acquaintance of his younger Officership days. Bandsmen D. Evenden and Hawkes, of Hamilton 1, who have both contributed nobly toward the Officership of The Army, were interesting figures. Representatives were present from all Corps in the Division where Bands exist. Bandmaster Wood and a number of London 1 Bandsmen were also present.

Mrs. Maxwell "scored" in the night session. She introduced herself as a woman's woman, and, as was expected, she championed the cause of the Bandsman's wife. She did it worthily. She also had a word for the single Bandsman with a wife-to-be. Her timely words received full indorsement.

Consecration was the dominant of the concluding session. Some hallowed scenes were witnessed at the Altar. For instance, there were two fathers who mingled their tears with those of their two sons. Another splendid sight was that of one, who, heeding the Commissioner's injunction of the morning session that the older Bandsmen interest themselves in the younger members of the Band, was seen at the Altar with his arm around a young stripling; pleading himself to guard the lad's spiritual interests and guide his feet into proper channels.

The Staff Quartette rendered willing assistance in the accompaning the singing with their instruments and with their vocal selections. The day, too, would have been less successful had it not been for the presence and aid of Colonels Taylor and Hargrave, Lieut.-Colonel and Mrs. McAmmond and the Divisional Staff, whose work "behind the scenes" was reflected in the smooth functioning of the Councils.

The "chords" struck will not cease to vibrate for many days to come. Their music will be heard wherever these Bandsmen go, and the consequence will be the enlistment of others in our great Band family. We thank God for this day in a new practice room with our "Bandmaster."

BAND AND BRIGADE CHAT

At the time of writing these notes, the Hamilton Councils, to be conducted by the Commission, are still a pleasant anticipation, but from all appearances the Hamiltonians are desperately intent on making the fullest use of the "Day." The full report of the event which is to appear in this issue will, we believe, record a glorious day of spiritual up-building.

We commend to our Bandmasters the "Beethoven evening" program, which is set forth fully in this page. This is one of those "something new" ideas which help to lift musical festivals out of the rut.

Our musical fraternity will be interested to learn that Lieut.-Colonel Nicholson has written specially for the Canada East-West War Cry some thrilling reminiscences of the Household Troops Band under the caption, "On Tramp for Jesus." The Colonel, of course, is an old friend of Bandmen. The reminiscences, which will run in serial form, will commence in an early issue.

"Our little band," writes our Pictou correspondent, "has started to pray especially for certain individuals, devoting an extra five minutes at night and any possible time during the day to this. Last week we prayed earnestly for two persons, and on Sunday night we had the joy of seeing them yield fully to the Lord, with four other seekers. Praise God! They're marching down the main highway at Pictou! No by-paths for them!"

Word goes round again: "The new Journal is out. Dear, dear! We must sit down again to another meal! Why! some of us haven't finished the last spread yet!"

Still, it's better than having to starve! The Music Editorial Department can never be charged with failing to provide for the needs of their hungry family.

An enthusiastic trombone player, who is employed somewhere on T.H.Q., appeared the other lunch-time with a clarinet under his arm. While his colleagues were emptying their "nose-bags," he acted as orchestra! What's his idea? Is he practicing to be the "water" next Christmas in real old fashion style?

SPRINGHILL LOOKS AHEAD

Springhill Band had charge of last week-end's meetings, each Bandmaster playing a part. The Spirit of God was in great evidence and we had the joy of seeing one sister claim Salvation.

The Band recently held a Supper and Sale for the purpose of raising funds for new instruments for the newly-formed Young People's Band, which hopes to reinforce the Senior Band on Easter morning. The sum of $138.00 was realized, for which we give God all the glory.

MONTREAL CHEERS VERDUN

We had the very great pleasure the other night of a visit from the Montreal Citadel Band, under Bandmaster Goodier, and a large audience expressed pleasure and appreciation of every item rendered.

Throughout the program, which consisted of four of the prize Journals, the amiable chairman, Mr. Geo. S. Mooney, Secretary of the Central Y.M.C.A. in the Metropolis, interspersed the items with the relation of some interesting incidents gleaned during his recent tour of Europe.

We hope to have the Band with us again in the near future, and pray that God will continue to bless its music as He has done in the past.—C. C.

SONGSTERS AND SOUL-SAVING

By A VETERAN SONGSTER-LEADER

Let your labor be one of thanks, and also one of duty. Songsters are the servants of God, and it is their duty to do His bidding, for has He not given the command to all, "Follow Me, and I will make you fishers of men"? Thus it is quite plain that unless we faithfully do that to which He has called us, we are not His followers; and yet, and to say, there are many who cannot point to a single soul whom they have been the means of saving!

the platform before the public, or in business or private life, the deportment of Songsters must be in keeping with their profession. They should remember their position in The Army, and never forget that they are constantly being watched.

Another essential is wholeheartedness. When singing your song, let the people see that you are using your talents not merely to please the ear, but to reach the heart. Let the words be a direct appeal. Let them be distinct, and rendered with feeling. It is necessary, whatever part you sing, for the words to be made intelligible, for are you not telling out in song what a speaker tells out when speaking? And what a dull time you would have listening to a speaker whose words you could not understand!

Ottawa 11 Male Voice Quartette, vocalists who, to quote their Commanding Officer, Captain Dixon, "are rendering valuable service for the Kingdom of God in the Corps and district." Names (reading from the left): Treasurer Williams, Band-Sergeant Knight, Bandman Tibbles, and Bandmaster Gage

Let us remember, then, that this great labor of soul-saving must be one of love, thanks and duty.

But for this work to be successful there are important essentials to be considered.

One of the greatest of these essentials is careful conduct. Whether on for fishing and praying, not leaving it to others to haul in the net, thinking their responsibilities have ended with the last har of the song.

If our Brigades are to be the success we all want them to be, a greater interest must be taken in direct soul-saving work.

A BEETHOVEN EVENING

By BANDSMAN H. S. STEEL, Doncaster, England

This year the hundredth anniversary of the death of Ludwig van Beethoven falls due, for it was on March 26, 1827, that this great musician passed away. In musical circles particular attention is being directed to the man and his works.

The occasion offers an opportunity for some of our larger Bands to provide a "Beethoven" program which will be at once interesting, instructive, and attractive. Beethoven did a great deal for the development of instrumental music, which, of course, is an outstanding feature of The Salvation Army's methods.

Though the Music Editorial Department has not, perhaps, dipped into the works of this master as much as, say, those of Handel or Mozart, there are a sufficient number of extracts from Beethoven's music scattered about The Army's collection of vocal and instrumental music to make an acceptable program.

The following is an attempt to list out such a program and is penned on in the hope that it may suggest something to those interested in such a matter.

1. Opening Song: "Guide me, O Thou great Jehovah," to the tune "Austria."
2. Prayer: While in this attitude the Songster Brigade might sing two verses (one and two) of—

Come, my soul, thy suit prepare, Jesus loves to answer prayer. Use the tune known, I believe, as "322," of "Male Voice Books."

3. Briefly introduce the Subject.

4. Congregational Song: "All people that on earth do dwell" (Song Book, 343), to music by Beethoven in "B.J." 574, "Great Masters," No. 2, which will also be found in "Favorite Selections," No. 11. This is a fairly well-known tune.

5. Some one should then give a short account of Beethoven's parentage, birthplace, childhood, early musical efforts, and so on.

6. Song by Male Voices: "Heaven, Sing Praises," "Musical Salvationist," Feb. 1922, of "Male Voice Books." This music is also to be found in "B.J." 546, "Great Masters, No. 1," and "Favorite Selections," No. 10, and is in the old Special Band Book.

7. Another comrade might give some particulars of the musician's later appointments, his work, his compositions and songs. Different comrades should join in the talks in order to guard against any monotony which might otherwise arise.

8. "Supplication": This might with advantage be sung as a corporate song, with Band accompaniment. The music is to be found in "B.J." 573, "Favorite Selections," No. 10, and is in the old Special Band Book.

My prayer ascends, O God, to Thee, My hope for help art Thou; My heart is ever in Thy hand, But be my Saviour now!

Of course, if this idea is followed, the melody cornets will remain "tact," except in those parts where the voice part is not heard. This will be found on reference to "The Musical Salvationist" shown above, or the 1st corner part in No. 1 of the "Quartet Album" (No. 4), issued by the Music Editorial Department.

If preferred, the Band could play this alone, or the Brigade could sing it, or again, an instrumental quartet could play it, all these arrangements having been issued. But as this music was issued by Beethoven as a vocal solo (the words we use being by Lieut.-Colonel Slater), it would be very appropriately rendered as a vocal solo.

9. A comrade could give some stories of some of Beethoven's contemporaries, from Haydn and Mozart, say, to Spohr and Schubert.

10. Collection, Announcements, etc.

11. Selection by the Band: "Gems from Beethoven" (B.J. 516).

12. Particulars of the great master's last days, his deafness, and so on, and his death.

13. Songsters sing: "Hark, sinner, while God from on high doth entreat thee," to music by Beethoven, "Musical Salvationist," April, 1924.

14. Bible Reading (suggested): Luke 22: 32-35 (in the garden of Gethsemane); John 11: 1-11, 31-35 (the raising of Lazarus).

15. Songsters sing in conclusion: "Oh, how blest when day is over," in "Musical Salvationist," August, 1919 ("The Silent Hour"), to music by Beethoven.

There are one or two other items from Beethoven's works: "Orchestral Album" ("Instrumental Album, No. 3"), item No. 5, "Musical Salvationist," August, 1918. "Festival Series Band Journal," No. 29, selection from "Mount of Olives," and possibly some others I have missed.

A close co-operation between those taking part in such a service, and a recognition of the significance of the effort, will do much to make it a successful one.

One difficulty that might present itself, perhaps, would be the securing of the requisite particulars of the life of Beethoven. Where there is a public library, much information can be obtained from that source, either from a biography of the musician, or a book on musical history, or such works as the "Encyclopaedia Britannica," to be found in reference libraries. A small sum of money would not be wasted in purchasing a book on the subject.

STRIKING THE KEY-NOTE Have You Got the Correct Pitch?

A Band is either a bulwark of strength or a perplexing anxiety to the Corps. Everything depends on the key-note struck. If it is good playing first and the object of the playing second, then it will not be long before that sad affair "a bother with the Band" happens. The Salvation Army is glad to have fine music, but it insists on golly Bandmen. Our worst foes, nowadays, are often found among ourselves. What is the use of Captain, Local Officers, and Soldiers fighting for souls if the Band is not one hundred per cent behind them?

A good deal depends on the pitch. Music is not the only thing that is spoiled by wrong levels. Striking the key-note of life too high or too low, expecting more of humanity than it can attain to, or setting it too near closeness to the beasts, makes a muddle and a discord of existence.

The spiritual pitch of a Band is of the greatest importance to the pitch for the finest playing in the world will not fill the ears of the heart, and if the heart of the people knows there is no give-praise-to-God in the souls of the men who sound forth melody under the shadow and protection of Christ's Name they will not be helped nearer to Him. The listeners may be pleased, but the music degenerates to the service of the prince of vanity succeeds in doing that. We have a far more important mission. Let us ever realize it!

SUB-TERRITORIAL LEADER AND GENERAL SECRETARY

Undertake Enheartening Tour in Trinity Bay District

Lieut.-Colonel Moore and Major Tilley have just returned from a very successful tour which covered the South side of Trinity Bay. Heart's Content was their first campaigning ground, and here, on the Sunday evening, a large congregation assembled in the Citadel for a lantern service, which proved not only interesting, but profitable.

The Sunday services were well attended, and it was a great pleasure to the visitors to see the large number of Soldiers who took active part in these meetings.

Prayer was the topic of the Holy-ness meeting, the Colonel's address being aptly illustrated and given with impressive earnestness.

A Welcome Post-card

The Colonel's address in the afternoon on the progress of The Salvation Army, was deeply appreciated. The statistics relating to Newfoundland and the present standing were received with surprise and pleasure.

The Company Meeting was visited by Major Tilley, and his words were gladly received.

The Young People's Work, under Sergeant-Major Greene, is making splendid progress, and many of the young people have given their hearts to God.

Another full house greeted the Colonel at night, and gave marked attention to his earnest appeal. Much conviction was present in the meeting and many were unable to keep back their tears. Though no visible result was recorded, the Colonel felt convinced when he had left the meeting that the seed sown would bring forth fruit. He was not, therefore, surprised when on two days later, while at Heart's Harbor, a post-card reached him from the Officer at Heart's Content, that in the Tuesday night meeting ten men and women were gloriously saved, and expressing his conviction that this was the beginning of a mighty revival.

The Band, under the leadership of Deputy-Bandmaster Piercy, rendered excellent service, and are to be commended on their all-round success.

The Sub-Territorial Commander, with Major Tilley, visited the Day School on Monday morning and conducted an inspection. This school, which is under the direction of Ensign Jones, has done well. Last year's report shows that one hundred per cent of the pupils who sat for the C.H.E. Examination secured passes.

A Handy Man

A journey of seven miles brought the campaigners to New Chelsea, where they found Captain Boucher at the Day School busily engaged in imparting knowledge to his pupils. A brief inspection followed.

Prior to the night meeting, business matters were attended to, and it was pleasing to the visitors to hear of the all-round success here. During the past year, the school building has been remodelled, and with the new addition, now presents a very fine appearance. The Captain himself has done most of the carpentry work.

The building was packed for the meeting at night; chairs had to be procured from some near-by houses to accommodate the people desiring admission.

SCHOOLS OF THE PROPHETS AN INSTRUCTIVE STUDY OF TRAINING GARRISON ACTIVITIES OF OLD TESTAMENT DAYS

By Mrs. Lieut.-Colonel Moore

IN SALVATION ARMY work in Newfoundland the schools for the education of children and the Garrison for the training of Army Officers, constitute an important phase of our efforts. This being the case, a few thoughts occur to me in connection with the training schools we read of in the Scriptures.

It is true that the earliest teaching was done in the homes; parents taught their children, and the most important study, at any rate for heart and caused him also to prophesy.

And later, when David must needs flee for his life from the wrath of King Saul, he found refuge in Samuel's school at Naioth. There, when messengers were sent from Saul, they came under the power of God's Spirit and prophesied. Again, Saul, though an enemy to David, was compelled to prophesy when he came personally to seek him in this retreat from Samuel.

Forty-One Souls in One Meeting

BONAVISTA

FIELD-MAJOR AND MRS. SAINSBURY

Sunday, March 13, was a blessed day. The meetings were well attended, and a splendid crowd of soldiers took part in the afternoon Open-air. The Band also rendered good service during the day. But the night meeting witnessed the high-water mark of the day! The influence of the Holy Spirit was felt from the beginning, and very earnestly did the comrades plead with the unsaved to be reconciled to God. Many hearts were stirred by the sincere testimony of a young lad, who had sought Salvation the previous Sunday, and when the Prayer meeting began, his sister was the first to kneel at the mercy-seat, which was soon filled from end to end. It was a glorious scene, and our hearts overflowed with joy. At the close we rejoiced over forty-one souls who had found the Saviour. Praise God!

Hebrew children, were the Scriptures in existence at that time. If we pause to go back in our English history, one of the beautiful mental pictures we see there is the young King Alfred learning his lessons at his mother's knee. His primer was the Bible, all in Latin, with the exception of the gospel of St. John which was in old English.

But it is of the schools of the Prophets that we would gather information, and this reminds us that, from the beginning, God gave to the people, teachers. He gave them Noah, Enoch and Moses who showed them by example and by word the wonderful truths of God. But it remained for Samuel, the prophet and judge, to institute the first school of the Prophets. This school was at Naioth. Here he had a number of Hebrew youths who formed a company. As there was no tabernacle service at that time, and therefore no visible priesthood or sacrifices to be offered periodically, these young prophets became an important medium through whom God made His will known to Israel.

It was Samuel the Seer who met the young man Saul as he sought his father's asses and anointed him to be the first king of Israel, and it was Samuel's company of prophets whose religious fervor melted Saul's

When, years later, idolatry had become rampant in Israel, and their kings had led the people far from God and righteousness, God sent to them His servant, the prophet Elijah, and he instituted schools for young prophets, which commenced in Gilgal, Bethel and Jericho. It is very inspiring to read how, when he was to be taken away from them in a chariot of fire into Heaven, he paid a farewell visit to these three schools on his way to the other side of Jordan. At the last school, as many as fifty of these young prophets came to view Elijah's translation. This was to be one of their greatest object lessons, teaching them the certainty of another state after the earthly condition.

It is comforting to gather the relationship in which Elijah stood to these young students, for when Elisha, his lieutenant, saw him ascending up into Heaven, he cried, "My Father, my Father." And fifty men, described as strong men, went over the mountains and for three days sought for Elijah ere they were convinced that God had promoted him to a heavenly sphere. Then the acknowledged Elisha as the prophet in Elijah's place and rendered to him the homage due to a great religious leader.

Following a red-hot testimony meeting, the Colonel spoke on the importance of full surrender to God's will. One man came forward for the Blessing. Among those on the platform was Brother Butler, who, although having reached the ripe age of eighty-four years, is still an active worker in the Corps and glories in recounting the early-day victories in which he had a hand and which were gained in spite of fierce opposition. The next place of call was Hant's Harbor. One of the objects of the visit to this historic place was the opening of a large Young People's hall and Day School building.

In the morning a visit was paid this institution, where Captain Squires, the Day School teacher, was busily engaged in instructing her fifty pupils.

Lumber and Labor

In the afternoon, the opening ceremony was conducted by the Colonel. Following his address on the importance of education, the children sang the "Ode to Newfoundland," after which the Major made a few remarks bearing on the increased facilities in educational work.

It was gratifying to know that in connection with the erection of this two-storey building, which comprises two school-rooms, Home League room, and Young People's Hall, the comrades gave lumber and labor to the value of $200.00. The building is a credit to the community, and is one of the best schools that The Army possesses in the Island.

At night, the Colonel received a very warm welcome from the Soldiers and friends, and a very interesting meeting was conducted. The following night a red-hot Salvation meeting was held, and one soul claimed Salvation.

The newly-formed Band, under the capable leadership of Captain Pearl Squires, deserves much praise and is a great asset to this Corps. Particularly noticeable on this occasion was the number of young men and women who have given their hearts to God and have taken their stand as Junior and Senior Soldiers.

Commandant Peach, the Commanding Officer, is a hard worker and has had a very successful term at this Corps. Through his earnest and persistent efforts, both the spiritual and temporal welfare of the Corps has been raised to a higher status.

FAMISH COVE Candidate Greening

We have had the joy recently of seeing fifteen men and women at the Cross for Salvation.

On Sunday last the presence of God was much in evidence. Out of thirty-seven in attendance at the Holiness meeting in this small Corps, nineteen were Soldiers, and only two of those who had passed their twelfth birthday were uncovered.

We are now putting forth a special effort to secure a new drum, which is greatly needed.

HARBOR GRACE Captain Goulding

Harbor Grace is now on the upgrade. On Sunday night last a man found Christ. To God be the glory!

BURIM

Adjutant and Mrs. Porter During the past two weeks we have held meetings each night. Upwards of thirty souls have been saved during the past two months. We have placed eight new names on our Soldiers' Roll, with the possibility of others to follow. Most of those recently secured for God and The Army are young people.

SCHOOLS OF THE PROPHETS

It would seem that the prophets conducted regular stated services weekly and monthly. The Sabbaths and New Moons claimed their presence at the schools.—2 Kings 4:23. Those who sought for him could be almost certain that the prophet Elisha would be found at his college on Mount Carmel on the Sabbath or at the New Moon. Some of these prophets were married men and fathers. We read of the widow of one of the sons of the prophets who was exceedingly poor—not unusual with many of God's workers to-day. Her husband had left a debt, and the creditor was claiming her two sons for the redemption of the debt. She came to Elisha and wept out her story of distress to him, and he, as the spiritual father of these sons of the prophets, acknowledged her claim upon him and, through Almighty God, wrought a miracle which provided for her that which would satisfy the creditor and also sufficient to feed her sons and herself until the famine which was in the land had passed.

Surely then, there is nothing new in the system of the Cadets' Training Garrison that did not obtain in those schools of that long ago period. While we have not Samuel, Elijah and Elisha as principals, nevertheless we have the inspired account of these men of God and it is our privilege to possess the full and complete Holy Scriptures. Moreover, we have the Blessed Lord Jesus, the great Teacher, in our midst.

And of the Holy Spirit, St. John says, "But the anointing which ye have received of Him abideth in you, and ye need not that any man teach you; but as the same anointing teacheth you of all things, and is truth, and is no lie, and even as it hath taught you, ye shall abide in Him." The apostle John does not here imply that we decline the Christian counsel of faithful men of God, nor is mutual communication set aside, but approved of, in the case of those who are partakers of the anointing in one body. But we shall abide in Him, and He will teach us all things essential to Salvation.

God would guide him in the affairs of State. Who shall say that God did not direct him? D. L. Moody said: "Baxter stained the study walls with praying breath, and after he was anointed with the action of the Holy Ghost, he sent a river of 'living water' over Kidderminster, and converted hundreds." The Corps possessing praying Soldiers is the Corps truly efficient, even though it may not possess the largest Band, nor boast of the most Soldiers on the Roll. This is the Corps that grows in grace and in power; it is the Corps where the Cross is the attraction; where luke-warm Soldiers are few; where sinners sit uneasily in their seats. It is a place where God dwells. God wants a church sanctified, a "peculiar" people, a holy people, for He says, "Be ye holy, for I am holy."

The experience of Holiness is the real efficiency test of the Corps, and the promise of the Holy Spirit is a promise to every child of God.

Someone has said, "You cannot slide into this Blessing; nobody slides upwards!" But you can ask and receive. Lay yourself upon the Altar. Empty yourself and God will fill you so that out of you shall flow "rivers of living water," and your influence will live on and on, ever widening in its course, deepening in the lives of others, for just as is the standard of its Soldiers, so will the Corps be.

Twenty-Three Hundred Enthusiasts

ATTEND

A Progress-Marking Musicale

WHICH PREFACES BANDSMEN'S COUNCILS IN HAMILTON
THE COMMISSIONER Presides

A CROWD of 2,300 people at an Army Musical Festival does not seem to indicate that the power of Army music to attract the masses is diminishing. The bait is still effective, and it is up to us to see that we make the best use of it. The Commissioner certainly had this in mind at the Festival in review which was held in the Memorial School at Hamilton on the eve of the Bandsmen's Councils which he conducted in that centre last Sunday. The final moment of this big event found the Territorial Commander and Mrs. Maxwell standing before that great crowd, singing—what?

Lieut.-Colonel D. McAmmond, Divisional Commander, Hamilton

some "high-brow" song which sacrificed sense to sound? Oh, no! It was a simple song which took the gaze to the skies: "I've found the Pearl of Greatest Price."

But to begin at the beginning. The Festival, as an attraction, confounded pessimists who thought the spacious Auditorium would prove far too large a proposition for the event. Eight o'clock saw the vindication of the optimists, among whom was our super-optimistic Commissioner.

And it was an optimistic crowd! "Everybody who is in for a good time, raise your hand," commanded the Territorial Commander at the commencement of proceedings, after Lieut.-Colonel McAmmond had extended to him, and to Mrs. Maxwell, a loyal and heartily-endorsed welcome. A sea of hands witnessed to such high expectations.

Following the opening exercises, Controller Davis, who supported the Commissioner and spoke as the representative of the Mayor, and on behalf of the city, welcomed our Territorial Leaders and the delegates to Hamilton. In words throbbing with sincerity, he voiced his appreciation of The Army's manifold work, which he claimed was "one of the good influences of the city." "I have known The Army," he continued, "for the past fifty years, and when I think of those early days and then look at this platform crowded with men who give their services solely for the glory of God, and realize they are only a part of a great Army of musicians, I am filled with wonder."

The Commissioner, having thanked the Controller on behalf of Mrs. Maxwell and himself, as well as the delegates, for the kind words of welcome, soon had this Festival of praise under way.

In addition to the Staff Quartette, whose renderings of "The Old Chatterbox," "Glad Tidings," and "Remember Me, O Mighty One," gained a unanimous expression of delight and praise, eight Bands took part. Catalogued in program order, their individual items were: "My Fortress"—Guelph; "Exaltation"—St. Catharines; "Memories of the Masters"—Kitchener; "Consolation"—Hamilton IV; "Soldiers of the Army"—Hamilton II; "Nearer to Thee"—Hamilton III; "My Jesus"—Brantford; and "The Wanderer"—Hamilton I.

Judging from the expressions of appreciation, the audience enjoyed the program to the full. This is not to say that the critically minded would have awarded full marks for every item. There were faults of tuning, tempo, expression, and phrasing—vital essentials to effective playing; but as to this, and in response to requests, some notes will appear in the post-Easter issue in the columns devoted to our musical fraternity.

For this issue we put away the critic's notebook and give praise to these Bands which are so finely plodding along the road of progress.

During the past few years, we are told by one who has had opportunity of observing, there has been a marked advance. You would hardly recognize some of these Bands to-day, we are told, as the same Bands of five years ago. And less than twenty years ago Hamilton itself impressed, but often obdurate, backsliders. Prayers were offered, yes, and tears shed, by not a few, over men with whom they had played and worked for God, and to win back these wanderers was now the one thought in every mind. But what a task!

Every now and then a shout of victory heralded someone yielding, and the outbursts of joy as the penitents increased were thrilling. One man, despite an almost overwhelming appeal, refused to give in and went out of the Hall, but coming back he threw off his overcoat and hurried to the mercy-seat, where the God who had spoken to him so pointedly soon gave him peace. Another young man, son of a Bandsman, was led to the penitent-form by a convert who has just got into uniform, and almost at once the penitent son was followed by his penitent mother to the foot of the Cross.

Nor were incidents like these more heart-stirring than the sight of the Bandsman tenaciously holding on for this or that soul. Trying, and trying, and trying again to induce a brother to try again. Breaking into prayer, oftentimes truly impassioned prayer; too, here, and there, and everywhere. If only Heaven would hear! And Heaven heard! Faith was honored, so that when on the stroke of eleven o'clock the final benediction was pronounced the total number of seekers was twenty-five. Hallelujah! And the end is not yet.

BED-TIME STORY

Although the three boys were on the same sea, and had started at the same point, they did not meet each other. Dick was sailing well ahead when he noticed a dark cloud on the horizon. "Oh, I don't care," he said to himself. "I guess that will be all right. I'm not lost his own. I don't care, I can manage with one." Was the response he made to his feelings of unrest.

Bill was not very far away, but he was having a bad time. When the waves came rolling up, he was trodded like a boat should not ride over them. When the wind whistled a little louder than usual, he was worried lest it foretold a storm and he should not be able to combat the same, and so he continued wailing.

But Ben was having a fine trip. The dark clouds did not distress him. He had faith enough to believe that if any difficulty arose the fishermen would come and help him out. So he trusted and was not afraid.

In course of time the old fisherman stepped into a large vessel called Salvation and set out on the dark water, for the night was drawing on fast. Quickly it sped along and soon reached Bill, who was in a state of panic. The fisherman lifted his oar, and, using his small boat and took him in the large vessel. Presently they came across one of our bad guys, and he was in danger of sinking, all because he had not cast his net in all our dealings into the large vessel, and smashed the smaller boat. On the homeward journey they came in contact with Ben, who was sailing on quite placidly. The fisherman produced a piece of rope and tied Ben's little boat to his large vessel and then they all returned together.

Now I wonder which had you boys and girls have chosen for your trip on the Sea of Life? Perhaps, like Dick and Bill, you have stepped into the boats of "your career" and "your money," and find yourselves in difficulties. But there is a way of escape for you! The Salvation ship is at hand. Jesus is its captain, and you can, like wise Ben, be safely lifted up by stepping into the little barque called "Trust."

response. His is the Master hand whose safe, sure touch resolves the clash and shock of life's obscuring discords into a beautiful concord. For as He gives beauty, and the oil of joy for mourning, He gives us the power to reveal in the human heart both make it lovely.

possessed but one Band of about eighteen players equipped with a miscellaneous set of brass instruments. To-day, each of the five Corps possesses a Band, there being over a hundred Bandsmen in the city. All hail, then, to these sons of progress who carry the banner with the strange device—Excellence. The Commissioner's reading of the one hundredth Psalm was an object lesson to the young preacher. His expressive stressing of key words in that gem of praise, brought forth glitter to the jewel. Truly, how manifold are God's mercies!

It was patent to all that our Commissioner, possessing as he does such faith in the power of song, was aching to hear more singing than that programmed. He found his chance during the collection time, and quickly seized it; and those two hundred odd Bandsmen's voices raised in song found their way with rare facility to the heart. Then again, when the Staff Quartette had so feelingly rendered "Remember me, O Mighty One," he seized another fine opportunity and quickly had his massed male chorus again at work, and this "extra" must have thrilled every listener.

It was just as we reached the "final" of the meeting that there came an urgent request for a solo from the Commissioner. The low was late—well past ten—and the Commissioner hesitated a moment. But the audience was insistent, and so, with Mrs. Maxwell, he stepped to a microphone, "I've found a Pearl," he most apt and expressive turned it was a first time which focussed attention on the prime object of all musical effort, and sent us home with hearts that truly did "sing for joy."

The Commissioner made the heart-felt announcement that the Festival is to become an annual one, and that the "evening" we believe that next year's event, in more than one respect, will eclipse even the mark set up this year.

TO CORRESPONDENTS

The times for receiving reports for THE WAR CRY are:

- (1)—Ordinary Corps news, noon on Fridays.
- (2)—Brief reports regarding SPECIAL HAPPENINGS, either by mail or telegraph, noon on Tuesdays.

Ottawa United Holiness Meeting

On March 18, the United Holiness meeting was held at Ottawa II. We anticipated a spiritual feast—and received it. Lieut. Chandler, who has been appointed Divisional Helper, was welcomed. His testimony was pointed and definite. The Male Voice Party of Ottawa II sang, and the Band provided suitable music. The way of Holiness was made very plain by Major East in his lesson. It was necessary, he reminded us, to have clean thoughts, pure motives and to be honest and upright in all our dealings. The Army standard is high, but not impossible to reach! As we sang, "I claim the blessing," we were rejoiced to see several step into full light and liberty.

SACKVILLE

Captain Davies, Lieutenant Wells and three young people were recently enrolled as Junior Soldiers. A decided increase is noticeable in the Directory Class attendance, and Company Meetings. The St. Paul's Saving League is in full swing and thus far the results are ahead of last year. A "Beat and Train" contest has been started which we believe will attract new children. The Young People's League staged a splendid picnic on St. Patrick's night in the form of a "Sack Social." The Hall was filled and a new sum was realized. On Sunday, March 13, a Memorial service was held for the late Brother Bulmer. Several comrades paid tribute to his early life, and two young people gave their hearts to the Lord. On Sunday, March 20, eight souls claimed pardon.

DIGBY

Lieutenants Gohman and Dale, Major and Mrs. Ritchie visited Digby on March 13-20. Of outstanding interest was The Major's Object Lesson in the afternoon meeting, which resulted in one little girl giving her heart to God. Mrs. Ritchie's address at night was effective and there were two surrenders.

TODMORSE

Captain and Mrs. E. Clarke God has been outpouring His Spirit upon all Todmorse. During the last three weeks we have seen nine—1 a seeker at the Cross, and, naturally, a spiritual rejoicing is abroad. Seven of these nine drill on Sunday mornings has been commenced. Already prayer has been answered, so that backsliders and sinners are coming to Christ. We have been petitioning for a revival of God's work in the city. On the Saturday night preceding Bandsmen's Councils, Bandsmaster Kershaw and a number of Bandsmen, including conducted the meeting, which was a most inspiring and spiritual food being derived therefrom. Five surrenders followed the Bandsmaster's stirring address.

HUNTSVILLE

Ensign and Mrs. Luxton Our cottage Prayer meetings have been of great spiritual stimulus. At one of these, recently, a brother got gloriously saved. Major Thompson spent March 20 and 21 with us. His messages were inspiring and inspiring. On Monday night he gave a splendid lecture on "Newfoundland." Our Young People's Work is advancing steadily.

PARIS

Captain Greenhalgh, Lieut. Bell, Lieut.-Colonel McAmmond, Ensigns Ford and T.H.G., and Lieutenant Youngs of Hamilton I, were among recent visitors. Three souls were registered.

BRIDGEWATER, N.S.

Captain Wambolt, Lieut. Hodgson Last week, one soul sought pardon. This was, however, but a forerunner. Two more were registered on Sunday. A general conversation among the comrades then took place as they united hands around the Flag.

MIMICO

Ensign Scott, Lieut. Keeling On Sunday, March 13, the morning after the Bandsmen's Councils, Capt. Johnson of Divisional Sunday were held the meetings. Last Sunday we were blessed with a message from Adjutant Wilson, when one Soldier was converted. The Commissioner of Local Officers took place during the day. Every branch of our Corps is progressing steadily.

BYNG AVENUE

Captain and Mrs. Stevens The meetings on Sat. Sun. March 19-20 were led by Ensign and Mrs. Thomas. Many of the choruses were revived, and some with new choruses. The message of the "Visitors" were very blessed and enlightening. On Tuesday, March 22, Brigadier Ritchie and Captain Ritchie led the Soldiers' rally. The Commissioner of Local Officers took place in this meeting.

WOMEN'S ACTIVITIES

What about the Home League and League of Mercy at your Corps? Are they functioning? If so, let us hear about them. "Iron sharpeneth iron," so the doings of your women-folk may be an incentive and encouragement to sister-comrades in other Corps. Any Salvation incident that has reference to women or home, and that will prove helpful, will be appreciated.

Corps Veterans Feted

The West Toronto Home League held its Annual Tea on March 15 to which the veterans of the Corps were invited. The first Secretary of our Home League was present, Mrs. Sister Mrs. Barclay, and her message was greatly enjoyed. We were sorry that Mrs. Lieut. Colonel Perry was unable to attend on account of a protracted illness, but we are praying for her speedy recovery. A large number were present, and a profitable evening was spent.

Mrs. Brigadier Whitley was a much-appreciated visitor for our spiritual day. Her talk was very helpful. — M. A. Martin.

"That Soul-saving Shack"

A certain Home League number of Toronto was anxious to attend the meeting conducted for women in the Riverside Citadel by Mrs. Lieut. Commissioner Maxwell. Ordinarily, her position as a domestic was such that she would not be relieved in time to change her attire and cover the long car journey. Moreover, the one in charge of her department is far from being a congenial individual, especially where religion is concerned. Thus, she felt it was rather hopeless to ask to be relieved earlier. However, "nothing ventured is nothing gained," so she decided to make known her request. As the day proceeded, she was quite sure there was no hope of her desire being gratified. Then, she heard a rasping voice saying, "If you want to go to that soul-saving shack to-night, you had best be off!"

The Home League Sister was at the meeting in good time to occupy a front seat, and, judging by her smile-wreathed face, she was rewarded well!

FOR MUD STAINS

Allow mud stains to dry and brush carefully before any other treatment is used. If the fabric is washable and the brushing fails to remove the stain, use soap and water. Sponge the stains on non-washable material with water or denatured alcohol. For black silk rub the spots with cut raw potato. This leaves a thin film of starch on the surface which can be brushed off when dry. This treatment will leave a spot on all but black material and is too harsh for any but firm, smooth goods.

Nothing—no raptures, no shining ecstasy—can take the place of obedience to Christ.

The only safe way to estimate a man is by his soul.

Nothing except what flows from the heart, can render even external manners truly pleasing.

The Realm of Home

HOME RELIGION: "Pray For Them Which Desperately Use You."

The Founder in his book, "Orders and Regulations for Soldiers of The Salvation Army," says:

"Where persecution has to be endured at home by the Salvation Soldier, it should be borne in a Christian spirit; that is to say, with patience, knowing: (a) That it will probably be short-lived; (b) That it is sure to turn to the interests of the Master; (c) That, if endured for the Christlike life at home will likely be of greater profit to its occupants than any other professions he can make, or any arguments he can offer; indeed, it will probably be more effective to the unconverted there than all the preachments they may be in the habit of listening to in the pulpit and Hall put together.

"He should always cheerfully share the temporal burdens of home.

Whether a servant, or a son, a daughter, a brother, or a sister, the Soldier should help with any poverty, affliction, or other sorrow suffered by the family. This will prove to them the reality of his religion. The display of a little love for the bodies of those in his house will make them feel that he loves their souls. Nothing is more calculated to make the unconverted members of his family regard a Soldier's religion with contempt than to see him use his home just as a stranger would; that is, getting out of it all the ease and comfort he can, and not caring for the tears, heart-aches, and struggles that are being endured by those who have the burden of it.

"The responsibility for the Salvation and holy lives of every member of the family is more or less laid upon him by the fact that he lives under the same roof.

"Who will care for them if he does not? How can he expect any Officer, or Sergeant, or any one else to be interested in their Salvation if he who eats and drinks at the same table is not?

Those who are gone, you have. Those who departed loving you, love you still; and you love them always. . . They are only gone into the next room; and you will presently get up and follow them.—Thackeray.

A WRINKLE FOR THE COOK

Put the recipes most often used from magazines or old cookery books. Paste them on to squares of cardboard. Through holes in the tops slip a metal ring. They can then be turned over quickly and will stand on the table when in use, the cardboard flaps supporting the whole.

This is much more convenient than using a book—it is usually difficult to keep a book open at the right place.

Master's sake, it will prove a blessing to his own soul; (d) That it will probably lead to the Salvation of those who persecute him; (e) That in suffering it be is only having the same treatment that was given to his Lord.

"He must never retaliate under any circumstances; he must not return evil for evil. To deal out 'coals of fire,' that is, extra kindness, to his persecutors, is the Scripture direction, and always answers best. A

THE CUNNIN' LITTLE THING

When baby wakes up mornings
Then it's wake ye people all;
For another day of song and play
Has come at our darling's call;
And till she gets her dinner
She makes the welkin ring;
And she won't keep still
Till she's had her fill—
The cunnin' little thing.

When baby goes a-walking,
Oh, how her paddles fly!
For that's the way the babies say
To other folks, "By-by."
The trees bend down to kiss her,

And the birds in rapture sing,
As there she stands and waves her bands—
The cunnin' little thing.

When baby goes a-rocking
In her bed at close of day,
At bide and seek on her dainty cheek
The dreams and dimples play;
Then it's sleep in the tender kisses
The guardian angels bring
From the Far Above to my sweetest love—
You cunnin' little thing.

OUR BED-TIME STORY

By STORY-TELLER

On the Sea of Life

I WONDER how many girls and boys have spent a holiday at the sea-side? What a wonderful experience it is to be sure! Now, Dick, Bill and Ben were brothers, and they were going to the sea for the first time. How excited they were! At last the day for starting their journey arrived.

The trip to the station was not without thrills. Each of the boys had something to look after. Dick had the dog, Bill carried the umbrellas and constantly found them getting in the way of his feet, with the result that several times he fell full length on the pavement, much to the amusement of his brothers and anxiety of his mother. Ben, although the youngest, was the steadiest of the three lads and shouldered responsibility with pleasure. Soon, however, the train was started and the family settled down until it was time to get out and find their way to the little cottage by the sea.

What happy days followed! Sea bathing, sand-castle building, boat trips, and everything else that boys love.

One afternoon their mother sent them down to the sands to play. After they had been there for a little time, an old fisherman approached. He was a kindly-looking man, and the boys and girls who met him always made him welcome and liked him to talk with them. Dick, Bill and Ben were no exception. They dropped their spades and sat down to listen to the fisherman's story of the sea.

He told them of a sea on which he had sailed for many years, and he called it the Sea of Life. He said he would show it to the boys if they would come with him, and even let them go out in a boat, but the condition was that they each choose their own boat and handle it themselves. They thought the suggestion an opportunity of a life-time and gladly went with the fisherman to the shed where he kept his boats. What a crowd of boats there were, to be sure! All sizes, all descriptions, some newly-decorated, some very plain, some very strong and others very fragile. They were so displayed that any visitors could look at them from every angle.

"All you have to do is to choose your boats, boys," said the fisherman. "Come along, Dick, you are the eldest; what are you going to do?" Now, there was a very comfortable-looking boat, beautifully painted, standing just a little way off. This took Dick's eye. The name inscribed on it, however, was "Don't Can."

He tried the oars; they were light and easy to manage, and the whole thing looked so pleasurable that he decided to take his trip in this vessel. "All right," said the fisherman, "away you go; good luck to you, and with a good boat, good luck is sure to follow." Dick was on the Sea of Life.

Bill had been carefully surveying all the boats, and after a lot of hesitation thought he would try his luck in a sombre-looking affair named "Worry."

He was naturally a thorough lad, and the name of the boat appealed to him. He jumped in, the fisherman gave him a push and away went Bill.

Then came Ben. His mind had been made up even before Dick had made his decision. His choice was just a small boat, plain to look at, but sturdy. This was standing almost at the end of the line. It had the name "Trust" painted on the front in large golden letters. The fisherman smiled when he noticed Ben's choice, saw that he was careful and settled, and sent him off on the waters.

WILLIAM MAXWELL, Lieut.-Commissioner

COLONEL AND MRS. MOREHEN IN MONTREAL

It was a great day at Bordeaux Jail on Saturday, March 19, when the prisoners gathered in the Chapel to greet Colonel and Mrs. Morehen, the last named being better known to the men as "the little Mother."

After united singing, led by Brigadier Byers, a Scripture reading, and a solo by Commandant Trickey, "The heart that was broken for me," Mrs. Morehen spoke as only a mother could speak. Many of these hardened men, some who are young in years, were deeply moved by her appeal.

The Colonel spoke in characteristic fashion, and his words, we are sure, were as "a nail driven in a sure place." Fifteen men gave evidence of a resolve to commence life afresh.

Men's Metropole

A crowd of two hundred men gathered at the Metropole to hear the visitors and enjoy the singing as well as some Salvation truths on matters vital to a man's spiritual well-being.

Following the service, the men were given a hot meal. While this was being enjoyed by a great crowd of hungry, homeless men, the Colonel and his wife were hurried away to conduct another service at the Industrial Department, where there was a splendid gathering of the Social Staff, including employees. The addresses of both the Colonel and his wife were well received. Special prayer was offered for Mrs. Brigadier Byers, who has been seriously ill in the hospital. Happily, she has taken a turn for the better and is slowly improving.

At Verdun

At the final meeting, a Salvation battle, held at night in the Verdun (No. VI) Citadel, a splendid crowd was in evidence. Brigadier Byers, Field-Major and Mrs. Parsons, Captains Drummond and Hartas took part effectively.

The Songsters' selection, "Hark, 'tis the Master's call," and the Band's rendering of a delightful piece, both brought comment from the visitors. Mrs. Colonel Morehen pleaded tenderly with the sinner. The Colonel's address was forceful and brought much conviction.

There were four surrenders, all promising young people. The meeting concluded with songs of praise.

'ONE HOUR AT THE CROSS'

MASSSED BANDS and SONGSTERS

COLONEL ADBY AT ST. CATHARINES

Colonel Adby, supported by Commandant Ash, visited St. Catharines for the week-end of March 20 and 21. Sunday's services were of a character which will be long remembered and cherished. Colonel Adby's messages were inspiring and effective. The Prayer meeting at night resulted in seven seekers at the mercy-seat. The Band and Songsters contributed helpfully.—W. Strobilidge.

AN IMPRESSION

Of the Bandmen's Council in Hamilton

One could not fail to be impressed with the Commission's earnestness. It has gained first-hand knowledge of salient facts, and it was evident that the Bandmen acknowledged the truth of his remarks and gave hearty assent to his request for their help.

The three papers read in the afternoon were: "Salaries and emoluments," "The Bandmen's Council," and "The Bandmen's Council." A more tactful and forceful address, given by a woman to men by Mrs. Maxwell, was heard. The Commission's statements were outspoken and plain, but behind all the power of his own love was his. Our Commissioner appears to be a surgeon and physician of no mean ability.—H.E.

MONTREAL I

Ensign and Mrs. Green

Six or seven short, earnest prayers paved the way for a half-hour at the Hall's meeting of Sunday morning, March 27. As Mrs. Brigadier was doubtless the testification, there was a spontaneous response to her appeal for bright and brief experiences. The Ensign's address on "Faith in God's love" was rich blessing to our souls. Ensign and Mrs. Kerr, of Ottawa, were with us at the afternoon service. A great crowd gathered at the Quebec Hotel, the night meeting, and much blessing was experienced by those who entered the ring, as we saw the earnestness with which the crowd took in the message. A full Hall greeted us on our return and here again the Spirit came very near as Lieut.-Colonel Brant of International Headquarters joined the service. His subject—"Be of good cheer"—was replete with encouragement for souls who were experiencing storms of life. At the service, a welcome was accorded to Captain Hewitt, who has been transferred to the West. Ensign's Home, and also to Sgt. Wilson, late of Manchester IV Corps. Both of these comrades were in the saving and keeping power of God.

LONG BRANCH

Captains M. and G. Russell

We were recently delighted to host the Lakeside Corps Cadets with their special item, "Building the boat," was inspiring and instructive. The Lakeside Band also gave us an interesting program; the proceeds of the service going toward the fund for the reconstruction of our Hall. Much credit is due to our Home League for the successful Sale, held on March 14. Two back sliders recently returned to God.

CAMPBELLTON (Nfld.)

Ensign and Mrs. Parsons

Much credit is due to the church by people of the community, as witness the large numbers who attended our meetings. Their conviction is stamped on many faces, and people are desiring for the prayers of God's children. Thirty-five seekers were known at the Cross since the first of the year, and this has caused a great shout of joy in our camp. Many of our young converts have expressed a deep desire to take a firm stand for Jesus, and Ensign Parsons expects to enroll a number as Junior Soldiers.—J. V. Bishop.

TROUT RIVER (Nfld.)

Captain J. Snow

The Home League held their annual Sale of Work and Toys recently, and the sum of $116.00 was realized. The proceeds will be used to defray the expense of renovating the property.

MORETON'S SHARBOUR (Nfld.)

Four recruits have been enrolled as Soldiers. There is much conviction in our meetings, and we are praying for a revival of God's work. May God grant that this shall be so.
